

Maria Stamelou, MD, PhD, FEAN is assistant professor of Neurology in Philipps University, Marburg, Germany; Head of Parkinson's disease and movement disorders Dept. in HYGEIA Hospital, Athens, Greece; and collaborating Movement Disorders specialist in the Department of Neurology, Attikon Hospital, University of Athens, Greece. She was trained in Neurology in the Philipps University Marburg, Germany and specialized in Movement Disorders in the Sobell Department of Motor Neurosciences and Movement Disorders, University College London, Queen Square, UK. Her main clinical research area is Parkinson's disease and atypical parkinsonian syndromes. She has published numerous papers and books on Movement Disorders and has been invited as a speaker in numerous International Neurology and Movement Disorders meetings. She serves as an Assistant Editor for Movement Disorders Journal and is a member of several committees, task forces and study groups of the International Parkinson's Disease and Movement Disorders Society (MDS), as well as the European Academy of Neurology (EAN).