

Stuart H. Isaacson, MD

Associate Professor of Neurology, FIU Herbert Wertheim College of Medicine, Miami FL
Director, Parkinson Disease and Movement Disorders Center of Boca Raton

Stuart H. Isaacson, MD is Clinical Associate Professor of Neurology at the FIU Herbert Wertheim College of Medicine. Dr. Isaacson received his medical degree from Northwestern University School of Medicine in Chicago, Illinois. He completed fellowships at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda Maryland, and in NY at the Mount Sinai Medical Center under Warren Olanow, Melvin Yahr, and Mitchell Brin. In 1999, Dr. Isaacson established the Parkinson's Disease and Movement Disorders Center of Boca Raton, where he directs a team of movement disorder neurologists and clinical coordinators combining a holistic approach to medical therapy with access to state-of-the-art clinical research trials to find new treatments and ultimately a cure for Parkinson's disease and related movement disorders. He has been involved in over 100 clinical trials and has served on national and international committees for many drug development programs and trials, as well as for the Parkinson Study Group and the Movement Disorders Section of the American Academy of Neurology. Dr. Isaacson has authored or co-authored nearly 200 abstracts, journal articles, and book chapters, and has presented research results at national and international scientific meetings. He has also worked closely with national foundations, including the Michael J. Fox Foundation for Parkinson's Research. Dr. Isaacson is a member of the American Academy of Neurology, the Movement Disorders Society, the Section on Movement Disorders of the AAN, the Parkinson's Study Group, the Huntington's Study Group, and has been recognized in Best Doctors in America, America's Top Physicians, and Florida SuperDoctors.